Judge Duane Jorgenson has summoned three women to circuit court May 31 to decide their challenge to Wisconsin's law against home baking sales.

That notice follows an Institute for Justice court filing last year and a single hearing in Lafayette County just weeks ago. Yet it reflects years of the trio's unsuccessful attempts with Wisconsin Farmers Union (WFU) to bring to Wisconsin what 48 other states freely permit.

Each local plaintiff made her way from a farmstead, variously from rural Brodhead, Blanchardville and Browntown, last month to appear before Jorgenson in Darlington's historic courthouse. About 25 people, mostly women and family members, some driving as far as 3 hours, made the early-morning trip to court, too.

Press was among them April 27 from three local papers, a state farm publication and community radio station WORT. That contrasted sharply with CBS Sunday morning show, on-line magazine and big city daily coverage of the lawsuit to-date.

What seems novel in the nation's eyes is a bread-and-butter issue close to home. It pits rights of anyone, everyone inclined to bake and sell from home against manufacturers, lawmakers and a state agency charged with enforcement.

"Plaintiffs Dela Ends, Kriss Marion and Lisa Kivirist are all farmers and avid bakers who want to help support their families by selling their delicious baked good," argued attorney Erica Smith. "Plaintiffs must decline the requests of potential customers, however, because in Wisconsin, selling even a single home-baked cookie risks up to $1,000 in fines and up to 6 months in jail."

Defending Wisconsin against legal challenge from Smith's national non-profit institute, Assistant State's Attorney Gabe Johnson-Karp served up complex interpretations at issue. He deflected citizen claims of protectionism, irrationality and unfairness compared to a number of exemptions Wisconsin allows. He deflected or demurred as to pressure on state lawmakers from big food manufacturers, and he pressed their food safety claims.

While much of the court hearing was taken up with sparring over admissibility of late-filed "evidence," mostly photos from Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection inspections of licensed food manufacturers as interpreted second-hand by a former state inspector, Judge Jorgenson directed most of his prodding toward the defense.

"There has to be a rational basis for legislation," he said, "and that rationale has to be rational," noting that two plaintiffs, Kivirist and Marion, operate bed and breakfast establishments in which they routinely feed customers, yet are forbidden to sell the same baked items from the same ingredients, recipes and kitchens to the same clients to take home, or to neighbors in farmers' markets.

If the stated purpose of Wisconsin's laws and regulations is safety, how does the statute allow some to consume this home fare, but not others in a community farmers' market, Jorgenson asked?

"Separate regulations allow people to open their homes, engaging in a different economic relationship," Johnson-Karp replied. "It makes sense for them to provide food for their guests, but it makes sense that this is different than people they would meet on the street."

Given opportunity to respond to that argument, Smith told the judge it makes no sense for Wisconsin to require the hefty expense of B&B owners building a second state-licensed kitchen, costing tens of thousands of dollars to meet separate sets of rules. "The only reason we have this law is because of the lobby efforts of commercial bakers," she said.

Renting a licensed kitchen can be pricey, too, and it frequently requires travel for people away from their neighborhood or rural community. One licensed facility provided to the public in Madison charges $25 an hour. Just 10 hours of baking a week at that rate would amount to $13,500 a year, plaintiffs argued, in their 46-page constitutional challenge to Wisconsin's law.

From that plaintiffs' written legal challenge, Judge Jorgenson also drew particular attention to non-profit baking that Wisconsin allows among nine exempted classes. Free from state regulation, all of the exemptions (from home cider, to sorghum, picked products and eggs) could easily be deemed less safe than baked goods out of a home kitchen oven.

So many exemptions made for so many small home producers, Smith argued, seems hardly fair or reasonable.

Wisconsin Bakers Association, for example, the nonprofit trade association for bakeries that has lobbied against three citizen and WFU legislative attempts to add home-baking to the exemptions, is allowed annually to sell 400,000 cream puffs at the state fair in West Allis.

"Meanwhile, a home baker cannot sell even one cookie if she is doing it to support her family," Smith told the court, even though there has never been a documented case anywhere in the nation of anyone being sickened from home-baked cookies and breads.

For the state, Johnson-Karp admitted there exist no reports of home-baked goods having ever sickened anyone, anywhere, but he said health and safety concerns are still real.

Wisconsin citizens' third attempt with WFU to pass a bill exempting home-baked good sales in face-to-face transactions without food processing licensure is presently before the state Legislature. Assembly Speaker Robin Vos, himself a licensed owner of a popcorn business, has refused comment repeatedly to the press as to why the bill never makes it out of his key committee to a floor vote.

Sign up for Teen Battle of the Books

The seven public libraries of Rock County are once again putting together the Rock County Teen Battle of the Books, a friendly reading competition for teens ages 11 to 15. For the third year, teens will have the opportunity to read six great books and represent their library in a battle between teams from Clinton Public Library, Beloit Public Library, Eager Free Public Library (Evansville), Edgerton Public Library, Hedberg Public Library, Milton Public Library, and Orfordville Public Library.

Last year, 57 people witnessed six teams answer a variety of questions. Orfordville's Team BOO won and was able to proudly display the traveling trophy at their library.

Registration for the 2017 Rock County Teen Battle of the Books will be from May 15 to June 16. Individual and team registration can be done at any of the Rock County public libraries or online at <http://rockcountybattleofthebooks.tumblr.com>. Teams can consist to 2 to 4 players; individual registrants will be assigned a team by library staff members. Teens can join any library's team that they wish as they don't necessarily need to play for their home library. Team members will meet periodically at their home library and will have the opportunity to make t-shirts for the Final Battle.

The Final Battle will be held at the Beloit Public Library on Thursday, July 20, at 6 p.m. For the majority of the Final Battle, questions will be answered using Kahoot, a game-based classroom response system. Teams will be issued iPads and will see immediate scoring results. However, new to this year, various rounds will consist of written and oral answers. The battle is expected to take at least an hour and a half and will end with a pizza party for all participants.

This year, the booklist includes: "Hidden Figures (Young Readers' Edition)", by Margot Lee Shetterly, "The Inquisitor's Tale," by Adam Gidwitz and Hatem Aly, "The Iron Trial," by Holly Black and Cassandra Clare, "It Ain't So Awful, Falafel," by Firoozeh Dumas, "My Hero Academia (Vol. 1)," by Kohei Horikoshi, and "QB1," by Mike Lupica. Copies of the books are available at all the participating libraries.

McNeely family to host Breakfast on the Farm May 27

The 2017 Green County Breakfast on the Farm will be held Saturday, May 27, from 6 a.m. to 10 a.m. at Rollin' Green Dairy Farm, located at W425 Elmer Road, south of Brooklyn, Wis., off County Highway 104. Tickets can be purchased at the door and are $6 for adults and $4 for children 6 to 10 years of age, and children 5 years and under eat free.

This year marks the 38th edition of this annual event, featuring a delicious farm breakfast, live musical entertainment by the Soggy Prairie Boys, and fabulous educational displays, including an antique tractor display. The Green County Agricultural Chest organizes the celebration with generous support from area businesses and individuals, including Platinum Sponsors Colony Brands of Monroe, Badgerland Financial, Insight FS, and Stone Mill Construction.

Rollin' Green Dairy Farm is a family-owned dairy, started over 44 years ago by Robert and Patricia McNeely. In 1973, they moved from northern Illinois to begin farming in a 38-stanchion barn located on 215 acres. Today, Rollin' Green Dairy involves three generations and has grown to include 210 cows and over 1,600 acres dedicated to crops. The family is very proud that they have grown their herd from within, having never purchased an animal.

Robert and Patricia passed their love and tradition of farming to their son Jim. He and his wife Jennifer and their sons Jeffrey and Jamison are currently in the partnership. Both Robert and Patricia continue to be actively involved with the operation on a daily basis.

The farm has been through many changes since 1973. In 1987, the family added on to the dairy barn up to 69 stanchions, but continued to switch cows each milking. When Jeffrey returned to the farm from UW-River Falls with a degree in dairy science, plans were started to increase cow comfort. In 2011, a freestall barn was built, and in 2014, the McNeely's were able to build a parlor for their growing herd of 190 milking cows. In 2015, they renovated their stanchion barn into a calf housing facility.

Each person on the farm specializes in his or her own enterprise. Jim manages the cropland. Jennifer works off the farm as an administrative assistant at Albany Schools. Jeffrey is responsible for managing the dairy herd. Jeffrey's wife Nicole works as a field technician for AgSource. Jamison uses his degree earned from Blackhawk Technical College in the diesel and heavy equipment technician program to keep the machinery running and is in charge of feeding the dairy herd. Jamison's wife Amanda is a marketing associate at Filament Marketing. They welcomed daughter Adalyn earlier this year, making her the fourth generation to live on the farm. Jim and Jennifer's daughter Jillian (engaged to Christopher Malkow) is an agricultural education teacher and FFA Advisor at Janesville Craig High School. In addition to the family, the farm also employs two full time (Michael Golz and Hunter Jensen) and five part-time employees.

Social media and schools: Frenemies?

By Amy Giza
SCHOOL PSYCHOLOGIST

It's changed our lives, whether we like it or not: social media. These days, it's difficult to turn on the news and not hear about who tweeted what about whom. Information now travels at nearly the speed of thought. This allows ideas to boldly go where they've never gone before.

But has this been a mission of peace and enlightenment? Or something more troubling? I argue it's both, and it's a topic we can't ignore.

It's important to remember that social media is a tool, and tools are not inherently good or bad. They just are.

It's how they're used that makes a difference.

We can now travel to the other side of the world, take a picture with a binturong (which I just now discovered is a "bear cat" that lives in Southeast Asia, thanks to Wikipedia), and share it with our friends instantly back in Albany. This type of thing used to take months! We had to take a picture, develop it, load it on a boat or a plane, send it back, and then transport it over land to get to its destination. Now: zip-zap-done and delivered. We can now talk and share with friends and loved ones in the blink of an eye.

Naturally, this means big changes in education. The days of trekking to the library, flipping through a card catalog, searching for some dusty tome, and reading the limited information it holds are coming to a close. "Students, what is a binturong?" Type-type-scroll-click...Instant answer.

The internet even closes the gap between us. Out of town? Sick? No problem, just send it over. Skype or FaceTime in, and we can even talk face-to-face.

What's unfortunate, however, is that insults and aggression move just as quickly.

We teach our kids to think before they speak. This lesson is especially important today as the nature of communication has changed so dramatically. Now we have to teach, "Think before you post." It's not an easy lesson.

So much of our online socialization happens at the speed of thought. Some of us get uncomfortable or even anxious or upset if a text or a snap isn't answered right away. If we respond too quickly, though, our original ideas can get lost in a sea of typos or emotions. Misunderstandings run rampant, and unnecessary arguments occur. It's very important to read over

THANK YOU...

To the people of the Brodhead and Evansville School Districts for your support and contributions in our recent ANNUAL TOOTSIE ROLL FUND DRIVE, we very sincerely thank you.

To the Businesses and Industrial donations received from these communities, a very very sincere thank you. In these rough economic times we understand that you gave what you could. That is all that we asked for when we visited you earlier and you gave generously.

This is a Nationwide Fund Drive to offset the needs of Local Residents in their needs for Intellectual Disabilities. The money you gave stays in our communities to keep our School System active in needs where State and Federal Programs fall short. The winners are those you help to achieve a future worth seeking.

When you drop a coin in our cans and receive a Tootsie Roll as a thank you, rest assured that your money is put to good use.

This event was held April 21, 22 and 23 this year at the Piggly Wiggly in Brodhead and Evansville. Many Volunteers gave their time to help out. You may have recognized them as you entered or left the Stores that weekend. In addition, of course, THANK YOU TO THE MANAGEMENT of the Stores whose locations were IDEAL for our Quest. We look forward to working with you again.

Panthers win big over Argyle

By Derek Hoesly
CORRESPONDENT

The Panthers (14-2 overall, 9-1 Six Rivers) cruised to a five-inning 11-1 victory over Argyle in a Six Rivers Eastern Division matchup last Monday.

The Panthers manufactured a run in the bottom of the first. Senior Alexis Goecks ripped a base hit and scored on a sacrifice fly by senior Sara Jordan. Juda-Albany broke the game open with four runs in the bottom of the fourth. Junior Hailey Kammerer singled, and junior Maddie Roth was hit by a pitch with one out. Junior Haley Freitag clubbed a two-run double. Goecks and Jordan each laced RBI singles during the inning. Junior Sammi Detra drilled a two-run homerun in a five-run fifth inning. The blast was Detra's first career high school homerun.

Freitag led the Panthers' offensive attack, going 3-for-3 with two runs scored and two RBIs. Goecks went 3-for-4 with two runs scored and one RBI. Becker went 2-for-3 with one run scored.

Becker got the win, going five frames and surrendering two hits, three walks, and one earned run while recording five strikeouts.

The contestants were: Nevin Crane, a freshman escorted by Taylor Burrell; Aaron Myhre, a sophomore escorted by Danni Akey; Lane Hubanks, a junior escorted by Viviana Diaz; Zach Draeving, a junior escorted by Emma Hoscheit; Brad Onsgard, a senior escorted by Loey Dodge; and Jake Grayless, a senior escorted by Colleen Toberman.

A panel of four elementary school staff members judged the contest. Contestants were judged on their introduction, talent competition, mystery challenge, dance competition, formal wear, and a deep question.

The talent contest included three contestants singing, one playing piano, one magic act, and one jumping up and knocking a plastic cup off a pole. The mystery challenge required the contestants to draw their escort in five minutes.

The Panthers generated a scoring chance in the bottom half of the inning. Burkhalter legged out an infield single to the shortstop, and McDermott poked an opposite-field single into right field to put runners on the corners with two outs. Becker then hit a rocket into left field that went right to the fielder to end the frame.

Becker and Racine Lutheran starter Balke settled in over the next three innings. Becker retired 12 straight Crusaders with seven strikeouts. Balke retired nine out of 11 Cardinals from the second inning to the fourth frame.

The Panthers finally broke through in the bottom of the fifth. Goecks laced an opposite-field RBI base hit into right field to put Juda-Albany up 1-0. Burkhalter added an RBI fielder's choice to extend the lead to 2-0.

Renovations continue at Juda School

By Aurora Daniels
CORRESPONDENT

The Juda School District has seen a lot of excitement over the past few months with the renovations going on around the school. Last spring, the Juda community passed a $150,000 recurring operational referendum and a $5.7-million-dollar building, curriculum, and technology referendum.

These funds allow for the renovation of several main areas throughout Juda School. A construction company named Findorff has been busy completing the renovations.

There are three phases to this building project. The first phase occurred in the summer of 2016 and consisted of remodeling bathrooms in the elementary and high school, resurfacing the parking lot, and purchasing new curriculum for the students.

The second phase includes two major areas of renovation.

The first area is a new Learning Commons. Findorff remodeled the old elementary gym, formerly known as the Dungeon, into a new library. The renovation consisted of new windows, ceiling, lighting, flooring, walls, and HVAC. In addition to this, the new Learning Commons has an office and a conference room, along with a mezzanine for storage.

They also remodeled the old locker rooms in the Pit gym. These locker rooms were transformed into a special education and small-group intervention room for the middle school.

In addition to this, the second phase of the building project consisted of redoing the weight room with a new door to the teacher's office and purchasing new math curriculums for the middle school and high school.

The third phase is taking place during the spring and summer of 2017. This part includes removing asbestos from all elementary and high school rooms, along with adding new lights, flooring, and ceilings.

Lockers will be replaced throughout the school, and the Pit gym will have several additions, including a new sound system. The school's entryway will be made more secure, and the old library will be remodeled into an intervention and reading lab.

The Juda School District will have an open house and garage sale on May 22, 2017. It will be open for the community to view the completed projects. There will also be items that the school no longer needs available to community members. This event will take place from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The Juda School District is very excited and grateful to have the means to create a wonderful learning space for its students. These renovations are in thanks to the Juda community for passing the referendum in the spring of 2016.

Stop by the Juda School on May 22 to see all of the progress.

Green County moving forward with rural broadband expansion

Community members from Green County are collaborating to improve broadband service in the county by applying for the Wisconsin Broadband Expansion Grant. A Green County Broadband Steering Committee has been created for this broadband grant project to guide the project to success.

The primary objective of this broadband expansion project is to receive increased broadband service to as many homes and businesses as possible within Green County, with an emphasis on reaching especially underserved regions of the county.

The Wisconsin Broadband Expansion Grant enables this increased broadband service to happen by providing supplementary funding to overcome the difficulty for broadband service providers to make a profit while providing service to a smaller customer base in rural communities.

As part of the grant application process, the Steering Committee is contracting with SWWRPC to assist the committee through the complex process of gathering required grant application information, and then writing, reviewing, and submitting the grant application. SWWRPC has a proven track record of success with the Wisconsin Broadband Expansion Grant, having successfully partnered with Lafayette County on their grant project.

In recent years, fast and reliable broadband service has become a necessity for schools, businesses, and community members. Schools, and specifically students with broadband access, have increased opportunities in class offerings through shared virtual classrooms. High School students can attend classes not only with different districts, but also advanced courses, earning college credit from their home districts. Students can also complete their school work online, research scholarship opportunities, and apply for colleges.

Broadband also greatly helps to strengthen the economy by sparking innovation and providing businesses with a larger customer base, the ability to expand their market reach, and the ability to increase productivity.

By investing in broadband infrastructure, communities also provide their residents with access to larger job markets, which leads to increased incomes, shorter job searches, and more entrepreneurial opportunities.

This Green County Broadband Expansion Project has come together quickly, and the partners in the project have hit the ground running. Members of the Green County Leaders Class are reaching out to each municipality, asking them to write letters of support and to pass resolutions in support of the project.

After reaching out to the municipalities, the next steps will include: summarizing the need for broadband in the region; determining the project scope; estimating the number of individuals, households and businesses that will be served; and determining a partner internet service provider.

Already in these early stages, the project has been positively received across the county with many municipalities already passing resolutions in support of the initiative.

Panthers beat Potosi 14-1

By Derek Hoesly
CORRESPONDENT

The Juda-Albany Panthers (16-2 overall, 11-1 Six Rivers) used a 12-hit attack en route to a 14-1 victory over Potosi in a Six Rivers cross-over matchup last Thursday.

Potosi capitalized on a Panthers' error in the top of the first to take a 1-0 lead. Brooke McKillip hammered a base hit into right field to open the inning. Kate Nusbaum advanced McKillip into scoring position with a sacrifice bunt. Later in the inning, with runners on the corners, catcher Sammi Detra's throw to second was high, allowing McKillip to race home. Juda-Albany starter junior Nicki Becker struck out Sophie Langkamp and retired Hannah Udelhoven on a popout to first to strand Ally Siegert at second.

"We've been getting off to slow starts here the last few games," coach Bill Davis said. "It seems like the last three games, we've given up a run in the first inning, and teams haven't scored after that. We need to get better and maybe a little more prepared when we go out there at the beginning of the game, but the girls answered back. I just wish we could get off to a quicker start."

Potosi starter Jadya Noonan retired six out of the first seven batters in the game. The Panthers used the bunt game to spark the six-run bottom of the third. Detra tattooed a single off the fence in right center to start the frame. Senior Riley Adkins and senior Alexis Goecks laid down consecutive, perfectly-placed bunts to load the bases with no outs.

"We know we have good speed pretty much throughout our lineup. I saw that they were a little relaxed on the corners, and anytime I see the corners are relaxed, we're going to attack them," Davis said. "The bunts set the table for the top of the order, and then the top of the order came with the little bit of the pop."

Senior Sara Jordan drilled a two-run single into centerfield to put the Panthers up 2-1. Senior Sayde McDermott laced an RBI double into left center to extend the lead to 4-1. Junior Hailey Kammerer put down the Panthers' third bunt single of the inning to load the bases with one out. Junior Maddie Roth lined a two-run base hit into centerfield to put the Panthers up 6-1.

Juda-Albany displayed their strong, up-the-middle, infield defense in the top of the fourth. Langkamp legged out an infield single, and Udelhoven worked a base-on-balls with one out. The Panthers then turned a sparkling, inning-ending double play. Kalynn Vosberg hit a smash up the middle that Goecks ranged to her left. She snagged the hot shot and flipped to Adkins, who fired to first to complete the double play.

Juda-Albany exploded for eight runs, all coming with two outs in the bottom of the fourth. Adkins clubbed a double into the left-field corner to start the outburst. A hit-by-pitch and walk loaded the bases with no outs. Goecks used her quickness as she stole home to put Juda-Albany up 7-1. Becker, who has made significant strides at the plate this year, launched a booming three-run homer to left-center to balloon the lead to 10-1.

"Becker started off a little slow, but then she sure did answer back. She had great control after we got through that first inning," Davis said. "She's been hitting for us all year. She's been hitting .450, and that's her third home run of the year. That's why we got her in the five spot."

Kammerer and Roth continued the hit parade with back-to-back singles. The Panthers drew consecutive walks with the bases loaded to make the score 12-1. Goecks battled back from a 0-2 count to draw the second walk. That would be a theme as the Panthers saw lots of pitches and worked several deep counts against Noonan. A wild pitch and an error extended the lead to 14-1.

"After the second inning, we talked and said she's not changing speeds a whole lot. We just needed to keep the ball down in the zone and be patient up there," Davis said. "If you end up taking a high strike, you take a high strike, but it's getting your pitch. We did a way better job of making her bring the ball down in the zone after the second inning."

Becker earned the win, going five frames and surrendering three hits, three walks, one run, and zero earned runs while recording nine strikeouts.

Adkins led the Panthers' offensive attack, going 2-for-2 with two runs scored and one RBI. Jordan went 2-for-3 with one run scored and two RBIs. Roth also went 2-for-3 with one run scored and two RBIs. The Panthers banged out 12 hits in the contest.

"It's not just the top of our lineup that's doing it. It's the top, the middle, and the bottom and that makes for a strong team," Davis said. "If we can keep doing that, I like our chances as we get to the playoffs."

Join the Green County Master Gardeners for a tour on Thursday, May 25, at 7 p.m. at the Fitchburg Farms, 1839 County Rd MM, Fitchburg. This tour will be behind the scenes of a retail production greenhouse.

Fitchburg Farms was established in 2013 and is a full-service retail Garden Center that is committed to providing world-class customer service and second-to-none product quality. They provide a wide variety of new and old annuals, perennials, hanging baskets, planters, and house plants to the public and local landscapes. Join the tour for a behind-the-scenes look at what it takes to grow the plants being offered.

The Green County Wisconsin Master Gardeners Association was formed in Green County in 2004 to provide Master Gardeners with opportunities for professional development and community service. Master Gardener Volunteers help to provide beauty and growth in communities for flower, plant, and vegetative areas.

Led by Marilyn Sandin-Ross, GCMGA President, the Green County Master Gardeners Association meets on the fourth Thursday of the month from February through October. Anyone interested in horticulture and gardening is welcomed to join the association, and you do not have to be a Master Gardener to be a member or to attend.

A thin gold line below the window at the dispatch center at 1004 West Exchange Street stands for dispatchers, a voice of calm and steady action in the chaotic, dangerous field of law enforcement. Above, the thin blue line represents the police force's role as the last bulwark against anarchy and lawlessness.

In-between on the inside, serene on the outside

A quiet exterior belies the bevy of changes being undertaken at the Orfordville Police Department, on 303 Beloit St. The department, which shares its headquarters with the village city government, is in the midst of an overhaul, and currently has an interim chief and two part-time officers. The department is conducting an internal review and forwarding their recommendations to the village board, who are themselves seeking to hire a full-time chief. Interim Chief Don Bomkamp has 26 years of experience in law enforcement in Fitchburg, Janesville, and Orfordville, and with the Rock County Sheriff's Office. Field Training Officer Mike Rufer's experience in Clinton, Waushara County, and Rock County adds up to 28 years. Field Training Officer and Firearms Instructor Donovan Jarstad was a captain in the Wisconsin Air National Guard, a sergeant with the Fitchburg Police, and a correctional officer with the Rock County Sheriff's Office. Albany School Board reorganizes

By Beth Blakemore
CORRESPONDENT

New school board officers were announced at the May 8th Albany School Board meeting. Steve Elliott is President, Adam Kopp is Vice President, Barb Briggs is Secretary and Phil Kubesh is Treasurer. In the administrative reports, Connie Gregerson, 4k-12 principal, mentioned that Nurse Lisa Heinzen was nominated for Nurse of the Year at a ceremony held at Menona Terrace. The Albany school kids all gave her high fives in the hall.

There was a meeting with Black Hawk Technical College to discuss course integration.

The PTO Carnival and Raffle was well-attended and raised $3000.

A band concert was successful and showed growth in the students.

Derik Doeshler, the school Athletic Director, announced sports. The Juda-Albany softball team has a record of 16-2, and three Albany girls are starting on the varsity team. In track, athletes have set many personal records, and the throwers are performing particularly well.

Megan Schulz, School Counselor, presented Academic and Career Planning with a state statute explaining that the goal is "preparing students for whatever path they choose after graduation." This includes an Academic and Career Planning Portfolio to be completed by the end of grade 12.

Amy Vesperman, Superintendent, showed first-year teachers starting at a salary of $38,000. Having a master's degree allows them to move over three steps and a doctorate five steps. There are also moves for taking college classes.

The board approved 26 open enrollment applications and 2017-18 teacher contracts. The support staff will receive a fifty-cent raise next year. Auditor contracts were also approved, as was employee health insurance.

a post and ask ourselves, "Is this really how I want to represent myself?"

And since most of us now carry windows to the entire world in our pockets, what happens when we happen across the dark places?

We're well-meaning and big-hearted, but not everyone shares our good intentions. Wolves lurk disguised as the sheep they walk among. Not only is it important to think before we post, but it's also important to be smart about where we go and with whom we share our posts.

At school, we strive to teach our students about digital citizenship. This is just essentially teaching how to use the tools we have at our disposal. If we have a hammer, we can choose to use it to build a house or to destroy one. The same is true with social media. When used appropriately it is a marvelous thing. There is absolutely a place in schools for this type of tool. Information that once was held only by a few experts is now available to all of us. But what to do with it all?

Education is becoming more about teaching critical thinking skills than it is about teaching facts. We teach how to make use of the information available to us and how to link it to other pieces of information. We also teach how to sort out reliable information from false or misleading information. Sorting this out takes a trained, educated eye. What we think we know shapes our perception of the world.

All of this underscores the need for teaching students how to filter. This includes not only how they access information, but also how they contribute to the information available. Developing this filter takes time. As teachers and parents, we can help to ensure that we're keeping our kids on the right paths by monitoring their time online.

A lot has been said about privacy on the internet in the news, but we can't forget that a big part of our job is to keep our kids safe. If we wouldn't allow them to wander back alleys in unfamiliar cities by themselves, we wouldn't want to allow them to navigate the whole of the internet alone.

The best thing we can do is teach our kids to make sense of all the good and the bad by providing them informed feedback based on what they're seeing and doing. We teach them how to use the tools from the time that they are young so that they can learn to use them on their own as they grow up.

You're not snooping when you're reading their posts. You're guiding their habits they will develop for the rest of their lives.

Green County Development Corporation announces award recipients

The Green County Development Corporation (GCDC) held their annual dinner on Tuesday, April 25, at Turner Hall in Monroe. The evening recognized outstanding community and business leaders and concluded with a keynote presentation on positive rural trends and strategies to help small towns and rural communities become more idea-friendly.

Outstanding Business of the Year was presented to Hawk's Mill Winery, owned and operated by Ric and Teresa Joranlien. The Joranliens expanded Hawk's Mill into downtown New Glarus, acquiring the Primrose Winery in 2016. It recently opened its doors for business. Ric and Teresa started a small vineyard on their property in 2012 and enjoyed making homemade wines in their basement. They purchased the adjoining property and residence, starting a renovation process late 2013, and they opened the winery outside of Browntown in early 2015, adding a wine production building later that year.

The Richard B. Schmied Leadership Award was presented to Bryan Gadow, New Glarus Village Administrator. Since his hiring in 2015, Bryan has improved communication among the New Glarus Village Board, the village staff, and the local New Glarus community. Bryan has also improved the village's budget process by creating budget documents that are clear and transparent. Along with taking a lead in developing five-year plans for maintenance and replacement of capital items, Bryan has also been instrumental in the village's participation in the Wisconsin Economic Development Corporation's (WEDC) "Connect Communities" program.

The keynote presentation by author and business owner Becky McCray offered a dynamic and thought-provoking presentation focused on positive rural trends and practical steps for shaping the future of Green County communities.

The Green County Development Corporation (GCDC), a multi-jurisdictional economic development corporation, was formed to bring professional economic development expertise to its member communities to create a competitive advantage to spur job creation and new investments. The organization is building the economic future of Green County communities and businesses through public-private partnerships. Visit the GCDC web site at www.GreenCountyEDC.com.
