A little library is born

Zach Bloom, Soulfire Youth Ministry leader at New Horizon United Methodist church, guides the new little library into its new home at 121 Janesville St., Footville. Upon completion of renovations currently underway, the shuttered Methodist church will house the Luther Valley Historical society as well.

Slow no-wake lifted on Rock River

According to the US Geological Survey Gauge on Lake Koshkonong, the water level for the Rock River is 7 feet 2 inches. County Ordinance allows for an abeyance of a slow-no-wake speed restriction when water levels fall below 8 feet on the portion of the Rock River downstream from the northern Rock County Line to the Indianford Dam.

As a result, the Sheriff's Office is removing the previously declared slow-no-wake speed restriction on this portion of the Rock River.

The US Geological Survey Gauge in Afton reads 6 feet, 5 inches. The Sheriff's Office is removing the previously declared slow no wake restriction downstream from the Indianford Dam to the Beloit Rock Town Line Bridge of the Rock River.

County Ordinance allows for an abeyance of a slow-no-wake speed restriction when water levels fall below 6 1/2 feet on the portion of the Rock River

As a reminder, the portion of the Rock River from the Beloit Rock Town Line Bridge to the Stateline is not under a slow-no-wake speed restriction, as County Ordinance allows for an abeyance of the speed restriction when water levels fall below 8 1/2 feet in Afton.

Orfordville Fire Dept. 'Bike Rodeo' next Saturday

The Orfordville Fire Department will be doing their annual Bike Rodeo on Saturday, Aug. 19, from 9 a.m. to noon at the Fire Station at 173 S. Wright St.

The Fire Department will give instructions on bike safety and also have a course set up for kids to ride their bikes. Bike helmets are available for free for those that do not have one.

A free hot dog lunch will be provided. There are also two bikes that will be given for door prizes.

This is a great, free community activity hosted by the Orfordville Fire Department. We hope to see you there.

Reverend Jorge Ochoa fills in the hole dug for the new little library constructed by the Soulfire Youth Ministry group on August 9 in Footville.

Emily Kjellander, 13, Zach Bloom, Joyce Miller, and Trevor Kjellander, 13, join in New Horizon United Methodist Reverend Jorge Ochoa's prayer over the newly-erected little library at 121 Janesville St., in Footville.

Pastor's Corner

Holy Humor

BY REV. ANDY TWITON

There is a deep humor and profound mischief in the Christian message that is often overlooked.

Part of what makes a joke work is an element of surprise. First, we are given a premise or set-up. For example, "Why did the nose stop going to school?" Then, the punch line takes us in an unexpected direction: "He was tired of getting picked on." The premise sets up our expectations and the punch line subverts them.

Practical jokes work in much the same way. When I was young, my dad, a pastor, and his friend, also a pastor in a nearby town, got into a battle of practical jokes.

One time while we were out of town, the friend and his wife filled our yard with lawn ornaments dressed in Hawaiian shirts and filled the showerheads in our house with packets of Kool-Aid. My mom was a little bit startled but soon began to laugh when she saw purple water coming out at her.

Sometimes we laugh at the surprises of life itself. Maybe you expected to fall on your face, but the punch line is that things turned out okay.

There's a scene at the end of the "Lord of the Rings" movies where the main character Frodo is reunited with all his friends - Gandalf, Merry, Pippin, Sam, and the rest - after a long journey that nearly killed him. There are very few words in the whole scene. Instead, the scene is full of laughter.

I suspect that they all believed they would die and never see each other again, but the surprising punch line is that they are alive and together. They expected tragedy, but they found comedy.

This scene is an image of heaven for me. When I imagine seeing my grandparents again, I wonder if before any words are spoken we will simply laugh at the joy of it all.

The pastor and novelist Frederick Buechner in a chapter on the comedy of the gospel says, "The tragic is inevitable. The comic is unforeseeable."

Growing old, getting sick, accidents, mistakes, sin, war, and death - that's the tragic. That's the inevitable. But new life, forgiveness, healing, wholeness, peace, and resurrection - that's the comic. That's the unforeseeable. These things may even seem impossible.

I think this is what makes God such a good comedian. All things are possible for God, so God is the master of surprising us with the impossible. God brings life out of death, forgiveness out of sin, holiness out of sinners, friendship out of enemies, hope out of despair. God brings something out of nothing and all we can do is laugh.

Take, for example, the story of the birth of Isaac to Sarah and Abraham (Genesis 21:1-8). Sarah was in her nineties. Abraham was near 100 years old. It seemed inevitable that they would never have children. But then an angel of the Lord shows up to say the impossible would happen: Sarah will give birth to a baby boy just as God had promised long ago.

Maybe we understand why Sarah began to laugh: "God has brought laughter for me," she said.

"Everyone who hears will laugh with me" (Genesis 21:6). And they named the baby Isaac, which means "laughter."

Perhaps God's greatest joke, however, is Easter itself. The women who went to the tomb expected the inevitable - they expected to find Jesus dead and buried.

But here's the punch line: God had done the impossible. God had pulled life out of death like a magician pulls a rabbit out of a hat. Jesus is alive!

This is why many churches celebrate Holy Humor Sunday the first Sunday after Easter. Early Christians like Gregory of Nyssa and Saint Augustine described Easter as God's great trick or practical joke on the devil. Sin, death, and the devil are the butt of this joke.

To slightly adjust one of my favorite hymns: "Since Christ is Lord of heaven and earth, how can I keep from laughing?"

May God surprise you with humor and bless you with laughter.

Mobile veterinarians provide care at home

Whether you are taking your animal in for their regular check-up or making an emergency visit, being evaluated by a veterinarian is a critical part in your pet's health. But what if an animal is too sick or injured to be transported to the clinic?

Some animals, such as livestock, may even require a trailer for transport. Luckily for pet and livestock owners, mobile veterinarians are there to help.

Leslie Easterwood, clinical assistant professor at the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences, explained the important role mobile veterinarians play in animal health.

"The most common reason for an owner to use a mobile veterinarian is so that they do not have to transport their animal to a hospital," Easterwood said.

"There could be a variety of reasons why having the veterinarian come to the farm or home is better, such as situations where there are several animals to be treated or the owner does not have access to a livestock trailer."

Though mobile veterinarians are available for home-visits, they may also see patients in a clinic. With each day being different than the last, mobile veterinarians are kept on their feet.

"A typical day for a mobile veterinarian may include appointments in the office with a few farm calls and even surgeries," Easterwood said. "Some days a mobile veterinarian may not leave the office, and other days they may leave early in the morning and not return until after dark."

Despite mobile veterinarians' busy schedules, they are prepared to perform an array of procedures and surgeries for different species. Though some procedures and surgeries are best performed in the hospital setting, most routine work can be performed on the farm as well as in the hospital.

Mobile veterinarians care mostly for large animals, but there are still small animal veterinarians who will make house calls. Easterwood added that there are also an increasing number of small animal veterinarians who are willing to make house calls for physical therapy and perform an at-home euthanasia.

But before you call a mobile veterinarian, ask about any additional charges, such as travel fees. Otherwise, Easterwood said the costs are generally the same.

No matter the species or condition of health, a mobile veterinarian can provide excellent care in the comfort of your animal's home.

Orfordville woman wears hat rack's worth of roles for village

By Ryan Broege
EDITOR

I first interviewed Becky Strupp last spring as one of a half-dozen candidates vying for three open seats on Orfordville Village Board. Strupp, who has characterized herself as "subtle as a shotgun," was especially frank in her answers. Strupp warned that Orfordville needed to develop a viable downtown, or it would fold, like many villages before it.

Unlike her fellow candidates, Strupp was a recent arrival to Orfordville, moving there in October of 2014.

Even if just barely, Strupp is a millennial, a purportedly selfish, impatient generation ill-suited for the tedium and sluggish pace of local government. Strupp's prior experience in local government was scant: a position on the Janesville United Arts Alliance board. Strupp is, however, a Navy veteran.

Strupp's message resonated with voters, however, and she was elected to the board.

A third of the way through her term, it is fair to say Strupp is right at home, serving as a member of the economic development committee, police committee, and library board, chairing the farmer's market board, and after a recent reorganization, managing the market.

Strupp is also director of Orfordville's Connect Communities, a Wisconsin Economic Development Corporation program that aids in downtown revitalization. She usually has two or three meetings a week to attend, she said.

She owns and operates a vintage and curios shop, 100 Proof Design Co., in downtown Orfordville, and is mother to her three daughters, and wife to her husband, Don.

Given all the hats she wears, I asked Strupp if she is capable of saying "No."

"Ask my kids, they'll tell you I say 'no,' all the time," Strupp said.

"I work best with a low level of chaos," she said. "I like the busyness of it all."

Orfordville was making strides toward revitalization well before her arrival, Strupp said.

She touted the work of board members Beth Schmidt and Gary Phillips to create the economic development committee and the Orfordville chapter of the Lions Club. G.O.A.L., the Orfordville friends of library group, has proven instrumental in relocation and remodel of the Orfordville public library.

Downtown Orfordville is far from a ghost town. A farmer's market runs Thursday night and Saturday morning. Two more businesses will open storefronts next month. And the installation of stamped concrete marks the start of work on a "community corner," designed by Angus Young that will feature bike racks, benches and decorative vegetation.

Strupp takes on so many endeavors to set an example for her daughters, she said.

"Nobody can tell you (that) you can't. Be the change you want to see in the world."

(Right) Strupp grows animated when explaining her ideas for Orfordville as she gives a tour of her shop in the former Lyle's Cozy Inn.

County board passes CAFO moratorium

By Erica Roth
COUNTY SUPERVISOR

The Green County Board met on August 8 for its monthly meeting. The Green County Sheriff's Office and the Green County Emergency Management office presented their annual reports, a Human Services contract was approved, as well as a Human Services grant application. A large portion of the meeting was spent in discussion by the board regarding the creation of a moratorium on animal feedlot permitting, in other words a county wide moratorium on concentrated animal feeding operations (CAFOs).

Green County's Corporation Counsel and County Conservationist were involved with the discussion and were able to answer the many questions that came from the board members. A roll call vote was taken, and the moratorium passed unanimously. Four supervisors were absent from the meeting.

This moratorium applies to any new applications for permits for animal operations of 1,000 animal units or more, what is defined by the state as a CAFO or confined animal feeding operation.

It is effective for 270 days and can be extended by a simple majority vote by the county board. The purpose of the moratorium is to allow time for a study group to be formed, study the effects of large scale animal operations in the county, determine if precautions should be taken when siting animal feedlots, what those precautions should be in relation to Green County's unique features, and compile a report of the findings and suggestions.

The Green County Land and Water Conservation office is accepting applications now through the beginning of September for interested parties wanting to be part of the study group.

The nine person study group will consist of the chairs of the Land and Water Conservation Committee, the Health Committee, the Agriculture and Extension Education Committee, and the Green County Towns Association, an at-large Green County Board Supervisor, and four Green County residents and property owners.

Also, the County Conservationist, the County UW Extension Ag Agent, and the County Health Officer will serve as advisory, non-voting members of the Livestock Facility Study Group.

If you are interested in applying to be part of the Livestock Facility Study Group, please contact the Green County Land and Water Conservation Department at 325-4195. The long awaited county wide hydrogeological study is reported to be on schedule, with results and maps due at the end of the year.

If you have driven by the intersection of state highways 11 and 81, you may have noticed the construction proceeding on the new Government Services Building. It is looking good.

All meetings are open to the public, and I encourage you to attend.

You can find a schedule of upcoming meetings and agendas on the county website at www.co.green.wi.gov. You can also find your county board supervisor and their contact information on the site.

I value hearing from Green County residents, and especially my constituents. I can be reached at 608-371-9074 or at EricaRoth-GreenCountyBoard@gmail.com.

New Glarus Habitat Home build underway

Work at the Habitat for Humanity house at 200 1st Ave., New Glarus, is getting started. On July 22, volunteers converged on the site to clear the property of overgrowth and debris. While the cleanup was expected to take all day, the workers finished it before noon.

Demolition on the abandoned house was scheduled to begin August 14, followed by basement excavation. Soon after that, volunteers will be called into action.

Expected completion is early 2018. The project will take thousands of volunteer hours including at least 250 hours by the family selected to receive the house.

Civic, youth and faith groups as well as corporate teams are invited to participate by volunteering time and labor as well as donating construction materials and food for volunteers. Additional funding is always welcome.

Individuals and families are invited to volunteer for the Saturday work. While construction and renovation know-how is valuable, no experience is necessary and everyone is welcome.

Volunteers are taught what they need to know on the build site. A variety of skills and experience will be utilized as volunteers can work on construction, organizing supplies, cleanup, landscaping, serving food, and more.

This is the first time a Habitat build is happening in New Glarus although Habitat for Humanity in Green County has constructed or renovated 22 houses in its 30-year history—nine in Monroe, four in Brodhead, three in Monticello, three in Browntown, and one each in Albany, Belleville, and Blanchardville.

There are many winners with a Habitat build. The partner family wins as they get a new home with an interest-free mortgage and hours of volunteer labor. Businesses are winners as Habitat pays for professional excavation, concrete work, electrical work, plumbing, and HVAC. Green County gains in this case as the back taxes were paid and a new house comes onto the tax rolls.

The Village of New Glarus wins when a property, previously considered a public hazard, is demolished at no cost to the village.

Volunteers win by building a sense of community as they come together to improve the lives of a family committed to bettering their own lives.

Habitat's mission is to build safe, affordable housing in Green County, which comes from a desire to put God's love into action.

Volunteering provides a way to have fun while strengthening our community and empowering partner homeowners to build a better future for themselves.

More information about the project and volunteering can be found at leah@GreenCounty-Habitat.org.

Master Gardeners to explore 'Spiritual and Emotional Gardening'

Want to learn more about growing your own food? Want to learn to preserve what you grow and prepare it for healthier eating? Join the Green County Master Gardeners to tour God's Green Acres, located at W5841 Old Argyle Rd, Monroe, Wis.

Jane Skelton will be our guide for "Spiritual and Emotional Gardening" as we tour this unique garden that is in its fifth year of growing.

Examples of a variety of growing techniques are available including deep mulch with wood chips and hay and square foot gardening.

You will see shitake mushrooms grown on logs with a composting station near by.

A hoop house will be viewed which extends the growing season as the weather turns colder. This tour will also feature a fruit orchard and vineyard for review.

The Green County Wisconsin Master Gardeners

Association was formed in Green County in 2004 to provide Master Gardeners with opportunities for professional development and community service.

Master Gardener Volunteers help to provide beauty and growth in communities for flower, plant, and vegetative areas.

GCMGA President, Marilyn Sandin-Ross, invites you to participate in the opportunities offered by the Green County Master Gardeners Program. The Green County Master Gardeners Association meets on the fourth Thursday of the month from February through October.

Anyone interested in horticulture and gardening is welcome to join the association and you do not have to be a Master Gardener to be a member or to attend.

For more information on the UW-Extension Master Gardener program contact Mark Mayer, Agriculture Agent at 608-328-9440.

A community comes together

The 5th annual Juda Community Block party was held on Aug. 11 at the Zion Methodist Church parking lot in Juda. The party brings out members of the local community to get out and know their neighbors. A free meal of brats, hot dogs, sweet corn, fruit salad, chips, beverages and ice cream was provided. There were many activities to participate in, along with a pie auction at the end of the party. All money from the pie auction went to the renovation of the stained glass windows at the church.

Pie oh my!

Paul Matzke, Hazel Matzke, Corrine Daniels, Brian Matzke and Peggy Matzke enjoy the pie auction.

A sweet deal

Correctional officer accused of jewelry theft

On Aug. 4, 2017, the Rock County Sheriff's Office launched a criminal investigation into an alleged theft of jewelry from an inmate at the Rock County Jail.

The jewelry was valued at approximately $2,900.

As a result of the investigation, Probationary Correctional Officer Mitchell Wellnitz has been arrested for the above listed charges and is no longer employed by the Sheriff's Office.

Both of these charges are felonies in the State of Wisconsin.

Wellnitz was booked into the Rock County Jail on Aug. 7, 2017, and released with a court date.

The Rock County Sheriff's Office does not anticipate the release of any further information on this case.

Any further comment on the criminal charges are referred to the Rock County District Attorney's Office.

Pursuant to the directive of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, as found in Supreme Court Rule 20:3.6, Trial Publicity, you are advised that a charge is merely an accusation and that a defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty.
