Group displays Nazi imagery on UW-W campus

With students returning to campus for classes early last week, a small group of people projected Nazi imagery onto the side of a residence hall at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater around dusk on Jan. 21.

The incident, widely reported in the media, was apparently the work of four people who projected the image of a swastika and anti-Semitic phrases outside Knilans Residence Hall. The group chanted racist phrases and apparently lit flares. They were recorded on video surveillance.

The actions appear to be consistent with members of the "Blood Tribe," a group that has been active in the state over the last several months.

Police responded to the incident, but the group had already left the area.

According to an email from UW-Whitewater Chancellor Corey A. King, no further sightings were reported and there was no reason to believe there was a safety threat on campus.

"The actions of the individuals are consistent with a group that has been visiting other campuses, and has no affiliation with UW-Whitewater whatsoever," King wrote following the incident. "In an abundance of caution, we have increased police patrol on campus."

King went on to say the actions were "abhorrent" and "go against the values of the school."

"At UW-Whitewater, we strive to create a safe com-community where everyone feels a sense of belonging," King wrote. "We take pride in our Warhawk family. We reject hate in all its forms."

The Anti-Defamation League has reported a surge in anti-Semitic messaging since Oct. 7 – the day the Israel/Hamas war began in the Gaza Strip. Another march by a white supremacist group was reported Nov. 18 in Madison.

Students and staff at the university were informed counseling services were available through the university and the employee assistance program, respectively.

Dangerous winter weather intensifying blood shortage

$20 Amazon.com gift card by email for those give in February

The American Red Cross continues to experience an emergency blood shortage as severe winter weather has further impacted the ability to rebuild the blood supply. Blood and platelet donors are urged to give now to help ensure lifesaving medical procedures are not delayed.

The national blood supply remains at critically low levels. Blood drives have been canceled in nearly every state where the Red Cross collects blood. As a result, nearly 15,000 blood and platelet donations have gone uncollected this month alone. In addition to dangerous road conditions, many Americans have dealt with flight and shipping delays, and the Red Cross is no different. Snow, ice and extreme temperatures have made it tougher to move vital blood products across the Red Cross network, affecting deliveries to hospitals in some locations.

As much of the country warms up this week, individuals are urged to make an appointment now to give blood or platelets by using the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting RedCrossBlood.org or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767). As a thank-you, all those who come to give Feb. 1 to 29, will receive a $20 Amazon.com Gift Card by email. Visit RedCrossBlood.org/Heart for details.

The nation is currently facing the lowest number of people giving blood in 20 years. When fewer people donate blood, any disruption to blood donations – like recent weather systems – can have a huge effect on the availability of blood products and dramatic consequences for those in need of emergency blood transfusion. Generous blood donors are vital to ensuring those in need of transfusions have access to lifesaving care. Since announcing an emergency blood shortage earlier this month, thousands of donors across the country have answered the call to help. In appreciation for all those who take the time to help save lives, the Red Cross is pleased to launch an all-new Blood Donor Rewards program. This program offers a new way for the Red Cross to say thank-you for the generous donations that are critical to patients counting on lifesaving care. All donors will now earn points for their donations that accumulate each time they roll up a sleeve to give. Donors automatically started earning points on Jan. 1, 2024, and they can redeem points any time of year to receive e-gift cards or save them to redeem and claim an exclusive Red Cross merchandise item in the next calendar year. For more information, visit RedCrossBlood.org/Rewards.

ADRC: spots still available for virtual caregiver class

A Stress-Busting Program for Family Caregivers of People with Dementia will be held on Thursday evenings from Feb. 15 to April 11, from 6 to 8 p.m.

Registration is required by Feb. 8.

The Aging and Disability Resource Centers of Rock and Marquette Counties are offering the 9-week SBP class as developed at the University of Texas Health Science Center by Sharon Lewis and the WellMed Charitable Foundation beginning Thursday, Feb. 15

Who is this program for? Who is caring for someone with a form of dementia will benefit from the program.

What is SBP? The Stress-Busting Program for Family Caregivers of People with Dementia is a proven curriculum developed by Sharon L. Lewis, RN, PhD, FAAN in conjunction with the University of Texas Health Science Center and the WellMed Charitable Foundation which teaches stress management, relaxation tools, coping strategies and problem-solving skills with a support group component. Participants view the program as a source of strength and support for their caregiving role.

“Caregivers of someone with dementia experience high levels of stress, anxiety and depression. Dealing with those issues in a healthy way is vital to a caregiver’s well-being. Consequently, to care for the person with dementia, the caregiver must first learn how to care for themselves,” said Karen Tennyson, dementia care specialist at the Aging and Disability Resource Center of Rock County.

Reserve a spot today for the Stress-Busting Program for Family Caregivers of People with Dementia by contacting Karen Tennyson at 608-741-3615 or karen.tennyson@co.rock.wi.us.

Loans aid Wisconsin’s small businesses in 2023 with over $658M

The U.S. Small Business Administration recently announced that the SBA delivered $50 billion in capital, disaster relief, and bonding to small businesses and disaster-impacted communities across the U.S. in Fiscal Year 2023. More than $658.6 million of those dollars helped Badger State small businesses start and grow via 1233 SBA-backed loans.

“SBA-supported lending contributes vital capital to Wisconsin’s small businesses with longer terms and other benefits,” says SBA Wisconsin’s District Director Eric Ness. “With more than 457,000 small businesses in Wisconsin and more than 170 SBA-approved lenders, there’s capacity for growth as businesses become ready for it. During Mentor Month in January, I’d also like to mention SBA’s extensive network of partners who can advise entrepreneurs as they prepare to take on financing and successfully manage it.”

Wisconsin FY23 SBA Lending by the Numbers

- SBA 7(a) loans: 964 loans/$482.1 million
- SBA 504 loans: 183 loans/$174.9 million
- SBA microloans: 86 loans/$1.7 million

The SBA’s flagship 7(a) program in Wisconsin approved a slightly higher number of loans (964) for a slightly lower dollar amount ($482.1 million) compared to FY22’s 958 loans totaling $500 million. After a banner year for 504 loans in FY22 due in part to low fixed interest rates and refinances, there was a significant decline from 387 loans in FY22 to 183 in FY23 and a decline of $113 million from the FY22 figure of $287 million as interest rates increased.

made by the six SBA micro-loan intermediaries operating in Wisconsin increased over FY22, with 86 loans made for $1.7 million compared to 74 loans for $1.5 million last year.

Of the total loan portfolio volume, 37.3%, or more than $31.3 million, consisted of loans $150,000 or less. In FY22, 33% of loans, or more than $29.5 million, were $150,000 or less. Startup businesses made up 40% of the portfolio in FY23, compared to 36% in FY22.

Top Wisconsin SBA Lenders

The SBA’s Wisconsin office will present 16 awards to 14 lenders based on loan volume and other criteria (see below) at the Wisconsin Lenders’ Conference in May. Of note:

- First American Capital Corporation, a Native American-owned SBA micro-lender, will receive the top micro-lender recognition for the first time since joining the program in 2007.

- Three lenders will receive multiple awards: United Midwest Savings Bank, N.A. for volume lending in its asset category and for the most SBA 7(a) loans to veterans; Hiawatha National Bank for volume lending and for the most loans to rural small businesses; and Summit Credit Union, for the most 7(a) loans by a credit union and the greatest lender participation with 504 loans.

A complete list of Wisconsin’s SBA-approved lenders, along with daily updates and history on 7(a) and 504 SBA lending activity in Wisconsin, is available on the SBA Wisconsin website at www.sba.gov/wi under “Doing Business in our Area.”

Because of the death of the Milwaukee County Zoo's groundhog last year, the zoo has announced that this year their Humboldt penguins, seen here in January 2024, will be taking over the annual duties for the Groundhog Day weather prediction.

Zoo's penguins take over Groundhog Day

On Friday, Feb. 2, the Milwaukee County Zoo's Humboldt penguins will be taking over the duties for the annual Groundhog Day weather prediction.

The zoo's most recent groundhog, Gordy, passed away in 2023; the zoo's animal care staff is in the process of acquiring another groundhog to add to the population.

The ceremony will be hosted by County Executive David Crowley and Zoo Director Amos Morris and take place at the Taylor Family

Humboldt penguin habitat at 9 a.m., before the zoo opens to the public. The Humboldt penguins will waddle into the spotlight to make the winter or spring weather forecast. Afterward, the zoo will announce the weather prediction for the public on its social media platforms and on its website.

According to the new tradition, if the penguin sees its shadow, six more weeks of winter are to be expected. If the penguin doesn't see his shadow, the state can look forward to an early spring.

Humboldt penguins live along the shores of Peru and Chile in South America. Named for a chilly water current that flows through their coastal range, these birds are excellent swimmers. Their torpedo-shaped bodies can propel through the water at speeds of 30 miles an hour.

For more information on Groundhog Day – penguin-style, please contact the zoo's marketing and communications department at 414-256-5466.

Lady Comets bounce back from first regular season losses in nearly three years

By Trenten Scheidegger
CORRESPONDENT

The Albany-Monticello Varsity girls' basketball team has been on a historic run over the last few years. After a fifty-seven game regular season win streak, the Comets suffered their first losses in years.

Albany-Monticello head coach Derik Doescher took the time to discuss how the team handled the losses, and how the team continues to move forward. "Both opponents were ranked in the top five of Division Five," Doescher said, before adding, "Both opponents are loaded with talent and are very well coached. I felt that our team fought hard in both games and came away with many things that we can learn from and improve upon."

The Comets got off to a 12-0 start to the 2023-2024 season. That came after an undefeated 23-0 regular season last year. That comes after the team won twenty-two consecutive regular season games the year prior to that. Over the three-year stretch, the Comets were one of the most dominant teams in all of Wisconsin Division Five.

The last time Albany-Monticello lost a regular season game was on Dec. 9, 2021. They didn't suffer another regular season loss until Jan. 4, 2024, when they faced off with Argyle-Pecatonica. Albany-Monticello lost a tough game by a score of 55-47. Then, in their very next game, the Comets fell to Randolph 47-34.

Doescher shared his thoughts on each specific loss. On the Argyle-Pecatonica game, Doescher said the team needs to focus on their ball control. "We will need to improve upon pressure defenses that press full court. We had way too many turnovers that led to easy baskets for Argyle-Pecatonica. We did a great job defensively in the half court but gave up too many points in transition off of our turnovers," Doescher shared.

As for the Randolph game, Doescher said the game simply came down to efficiency on offense. Randolph's shots were falling at an alarming rate as they shot fifty-three percent as a team. Albany-Monticello shot just thirty-three percent from the field. Doescher pointed out that the Comets outplayed them in many areas, including rebounds, turnovers, and steals. Randolph simply hit their shots, and Albany-Monticello didn't. "That happens in the game of basketball, and the bottom line is we just didn't shoot the ball well," Doescher said.

What was important for the Comets was how they would respond to the losses. For some of them, they were the first losses they had experienced in their entire varsity basketball career. Not only did they bounce back, but they've already established another winning streak.

On Monday, Jan. 15, the Comets beat Shullsburg by a score of 66-43. Alana Durtschi, the team's leading scorer, led the Comets to victory with twenty-three points. Dalana Trumpy added eighteen points, which was a season-high performance.

On Thursday, Jan. 18, the Comets picked up a dominant 71-20 victory over the Juda Panthers. It was a game that saw four different Comets reach double figures in scoring. Trumpy led the team with fourteen, while Durtschi, Abby Hollis, and Molly Olson each finished with fourteen.

The Comets went on to win their third and fourth consecutive games with victories over Big Foot and Barneveld. With another four-game win streak, the Comets improved their overall record to 16-2 on the season.

One thing that makes the Comets such a challenge for opposing defense is their diversity on offense. Durtschi is a prominent scorer, but the Comets have a handful of players that can lead the team in scoring each and every night. Not only that, but they have experienced leaders who know how to win.

In a lengthy answer, Doescher spoke about the state of the team, and the leaders that help to shape the program. "We aren't hitting the panic button after two losses. We have a very good team with a lot of leadership, energy, and scoring power. Durtschi leads us in multiple categories, such as scoring, rebounding, steals, and assists. Hollis, Olson, and Trumpy are all double-digit scorers, as well. We will continue to improve and learn from the two losses against Argyle-Pecatonica and Randolph. Albany-Monticello girls' basketball is in a good place, and we have to a lot to look forward to as the tournament approaches."

On Saturday, Feb. 3, the Comets hit the road to face off with Palmyra Eagle. On Tuesday, Feb. 6, the Comets get a rematch as they play host to Argyle-Pecatonica at 7:30 p.m.

MeatSmith Co-op: A local solution for small meat producers

At the time I started raising sheep I was a vegetarian. I soon realized that when you start to breed sheep there will be excess males who will be meat for someone. So I went back to eating meat and kept my own butchered lambs. Eventually I started selling at the smaller farmers markets and from the farm. In recent years I have had between six and twelve breeding ewes with 9 to 18 lambs.

In the last few years I have found it challenging to schedule butcher dates. For me on-site slaughter is essential since it is less stressful for both the animals and the farmer than trucking them live to the butcher site. Of the butchers who offer on-site slaughter, there are only one or two who provide state-inspected slaughters. I can't sell individual cuts of meat at the farm or at farmers markets if it isn't inspected. Also without that inspection, I can only sell half or whole lambs to the customer and then the customer must deal directly with the butcher for processing instructions and fees. Most of my customers don't want to do that.

Butchers who offer inspected on site slaughter are scheduling over one year out which means before my sheep are even bred and sometimes even before I have a ram on site I need to have the butcher date scheduled. Since I am raising grass-fed, grass finished lamb I want to maximize the time they are on pasture and minimize the amount of hay I feed them.

Also, the nutritional values change after they are no longer eating fresh grass. For me the ideal time to schedule a butcher date is November or early December. Most meat processors keep November open for deer processing.

By FRIEDA SYNNESTVEDT
South Central Wisconsin Farmers Union

Besides processing animals for farmers, butcher shops also bring in meat from elsewhere to butcher and sell in their own stores. This meat is not necessarily local meat but it can provide a large part of their income. In this situation the small farmer may have a lower priority from an income to hassle ratio. This lower priority could be why mistakes are common in their processing orders. I'm fortunate that I haven't had cutting errors – where cuts of meat don't match what was ordered – as many of my friends have. The errors on my orders have been mistakes on labeling which is still problematic.

So when I heard of a butcher co-operative forming to serve local small farmers I was all in. I wouldn't be competing with hunters for scheduling times. I wouldn't be vying for processing time with the butcher shop's own production. MeatSmith Co-op is a producer- and worker-owned co-op serving farmers, butchers, and consumers in a six county area: Rock, Lafayette, Green, Iowa, Dane, and Grant.

The MeatSmith Co-op will work with members to offer more tailored products, such as member-developed sausage recipes. When you raise grass-fed, grass finished meat it doesn't make sense to be selling it in products made with preservatives, corn syrup, and MSG. The cooperative will offer more options in ingredients and specialty products. This isn't an option most processors offer. It's a premium product we can then offer to local markets. This meat is locally raised and will be processed locally for local consumers who want to know their farmers. Meats that come from an inspected slaughter can be sold from the farm and at farmers markets, as well as at local grocery stores and restaurants.

The on-site slaughter is one of the key offerings of the co-op with an eye on supporting the humane treatment of animals as well as sustainable farming practices. Initially the slaughters may not be inspected but the plan is to add an inspection that could allow for sales across state lines.

The butcher I have used for years has done a good job for me. My main issues are with scheduling, the labeling errors and the distance to their facility. The fact is we need more butchers! I am so looking forward to the start of operations of MeatSmith Cooperative.

High school robotics team advances to Wisconsin State Championship after winning Inspire Award

Turtle TEK, a second year locally-based FIRST Tech Challenge robotics team, was recently selected as one of 25 teams to advance to the Wisconsin State Championship, which will be held on Saturday, March 2, at the Milwaukee School of Engineering (MSOE).

Turtle TEK is a second-year team composed of eight middle and high school students from the stateline area. The team consists of Jordan Shultz and Xavier Miller from Beloit Memorial High School; and Isaac Kubatzke, Loretta Woodward, Katherine Woodard, Noah Hahn, Kelby Schneider, and Garrett Schneider, all of whom are homeschooled students. Students come from Beloit and Clinton in Wisconsin, and Poplar Grove and Winnebago in Illinois.

Turtle TEK recently competed at their first event of the season. The Neo-Titian qualifier was held at Brookfield East High School on Jan. 14. The team finished the robot game as the fourth-ranked alliance captain, selecting Screws Loose, a rookie team from Golda Meir School in Milwaukee, as their partner. The teams were eliminated from play by the winning alliance. In judged awards, Turtle TEK won the second place Connect Award. The team that wins the Connect Award actively seeks and recruits engineers and explores the opportunities available in the world of engineering, science, and technology.

The team was incredibly honored to be awarded the first place Inspire Award. The Inspire Award is given to the team that best embodies the "challenge" of the FIRST Tech Challenge program and is the highest award a team can earn. The team that receives this award is a strong ambassador for FIRST programs and a role model FIRST team. They are a top contender for many other judged awards and are a gracious competitor. Only nine teams in Wisconsin will be awarded this prestigious award this season, and Turtle TEK is excited to have done so as only a second year team. Because they won the Inspire Award, they earned a bid to the Wisconsin State Championship for the second year in a row.

FIRST Tech Challenge students learn to think like engineers. Teams design, build, and program robots to compete in an alliance format against other teams. Robots are powered by Android technology and students code using Java-based programming. By participating in FIRST, students gain confidence to explore the innovation process while learning valuable science, engineering, technology, teamwork, and problem-solving skills. Participants and alumni of FIRST programs gain access to education and career discovery opportunities, connections to exclusive scholarships and employers, and a place in the FIRST community for life.

Turtle TEK is sponsored by Hendrick's CareerTek, Wisconsin DPI Robotics Grant, The Morse Group, NOHR, Shorewest Realtors, Gene Haas Foundation, Fairbanks Morse Defense, and MSOE. The team is incredibly grateful to these companies for their support, in particular to Hendrick's CareerTek for not only funding, but also practice space. The team would also like to thank their mentors Kellen Randson, Meghan Ziembra, Bob Abele, Erik Rozolis, Nathan Wilder, and Mike Schneider for all the time they have given to help the team learn. The team is coached by Heather Schneider and Ted Wilder.

Turtle TEK will next compete at The Thumb Wars on Monday, Jan. 29, in New Berlin. For more information about FIRST robotics teams for students in grades 1-12, or to help sponsor Turtle TEK, please email FTCTurtleTek@gmail.com.
