USDA releases DBI funds following industry advocacy

On March 7, Wisconsin Cheese Makers Association (WCMA) applauded news that the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is releasing Congressionally-directed funding for the federal Dairy Business Innovation (DBI) Initiatives. USDA froze DBI grant monies earlier, triggering grave concern for hundreds of dairy farmers and processors, and sparking a national advocacy push.

“The release of this critical grant funding comes as an enormous relief to dairy farmers and processors who had earned grants and needed reimbursement from USDA for business improvements already made,” said Rebekah Sweeney, WCMA Senior Director of Programs and Policy. “We want to express our thanks for USDA’s expedited review of this program and today’s decision, and thanks to the dairy leaders who pushed to secure all committed funds, and to the members of Congress who championed our cause – in particular, Senator Tammy Baldwin and Repre-

In early March, WCMA led a comprehensive advocacy campaign for the release of DBI funds, with staff and dairy processors meeting with Congressional leaders in Washington, D.C., joined by partners from International Dairy Foods Association. WCMA directly communicated with USDA leadership and coordinated a letter to the agency from 120 businesses in 29 states.

There are four DBI centers across the country, housed in California, Tennessee, Vermont, and Wisconsin to serve dairy farmers and processors regionally, supporting them with technical assistance, market analysis, research and development, as well as direct-to-business grants.

All four DBI centers have now been notified of the USDA release of funding, and reimbursement requests from businesses may resume immediately. A total of 420

78th Alice in Dairyland top candidates revealed

Natalie Roe from Monticello one of the top six candidates for position

The Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP) has announced the six top candidates to become the 78th Alice in Dairyland. The candidates are Allison Foster, Michelle Stangler, Mikayla Flyte, Natalie Roe, Olivia Lulich, and Sarah Hagenow.

Prior to being selected, the top candidates completed an application and preliminary interview. During the next two months, they will participate in a rigorous interview process that will allow them to showcase the communications and public relations skills required to be the 78th Alice in Dairyland. All top candidates will receive media and speaking training and earn a DATCP marketing and communications certificate.

This training process will prepare the candidates for the Alice in Dairyland Finals, scheduled for May 15 to 17 in Crawford County. The three-day finals include agribusiness tours, media interviews, an impromptu question-and-answer session, candidate presentations, and more. The selection of the 78th Alice in Dairyland will be announced at a public event on May 17 at the Performing Arts Center in Prairie du Chien, and she will begin her term on July 7, 2025.

“Serving as Alice in Dairyland is the ultimate goal of this process for these young women, but the skills they will develop along the way will take them far in life no matter where they go,” said Halei Heinzl, 77th Alice in Dairyland. “I look forward to discovering where each candidate shines as we move toward selecting Wisconsin’s 78th Alice in Dairyland!”

Ag tourism members nominated for award

The Wisconsin Agricultural Tourism Association is celebrating innovation, dedication, and excellence by nominating four outstanding organizations for 2025 Governor’s Tourism Awards.

These nominations highlight the transformative impact of agricultural tourism across the state, showcasing their contributions to economic growth and visitor experiences.

• Skelly’s Farm Market – Nominated for the Innovation Award, Skelly’s implemented groundbreaking use of technology to enhance the visitor experience. A pioneer in corn maze design since 1998, Scott Skelly has continuously pushed the boundaries of visitor engagement. In 2022, Skelly developed a cutting-edge mobile app that integrates smartphone-based gaming with the corn maze experience, transforming traditional farm attractions into interactive, video-like adventures. By 2024, Skelly and his wife Laura further advanced the app to include multi-level challenges and the nation’s only known escape room within a corn maze. Skelly’s Farm Market is a model of how technology can drive tourism, strengthen rural economies, and ensure farm sustainability. Their innovations attract tens of thousands of visitors annually, making the farm a deserving nominee for this prestigious award.

• Food + Farm Exploration Center – Nominated for the Bright IDEA Award, the Food + Farm Exploration Center is committed to providing exceptional inclusivity, diversity, equity, and accessibility in tourism. This interactive destination ensures accessibility through innovative features like an ADA-compliant Ag Simulator, a wellness room for individuals with sensory sensitivities, which allow visitors of all abilities to experience farming firsthand. Additional accessibility enhancements include wheelchair-accessible exhibits, Braille signage, cane strikes, adjustable-height tables, and expanded ADA-compliant spaces. The center has made a significant community impact through initiatives like free U-Pick Harvest events (donating 5,500 lbs. of produce), field trip grants for underserved students, and collaborations with ADRC and ODC to create adaptive cooking activities for seniors and individuals with disabilities. As a Museums for top agricultural tourism destinations, attracting over 30,000 visitors annually and generating substantial economic impact and room tax revenue. Transitioning from careers in firefighting and education, they purchased the farm in 2022 and became first-time owners and operators of this tourism venue. Through strategic marketing and rebranding, they have positioned Busy Barn Farm Adventures as a must-visit destination, significantly increasing tourism in Fort Atkinson and Jefferson County. Their educational initiatives have brought over 4,500 students to the farm for hands-on agricultural learning experiences. They also actively support community engagement, hosting local proms, food pantry fundraisers, and private tours for future agriculture students. Their innovative programming, including Winter on the Farm, has drawn hundreds of visitors from urban Milwaukee and northern Illinois, boosting regional tourism. Their event venue, The Gathering Barn, has hosted 98 events since August 2022, further increasing local economic benefits. As active members of the Wisconsin Agricultural Tourism Association, they share best practices and mentor other tourism businesses. By preserving farmland, creating memorable farm experiences, and strengthening Wisconsin's agricultural heritage, Afton and Mitch exemplify rising stars in agritourism.

All partner, F+FEC offers discounted admission to families receiving SNAP benefits, further removing financial barriers to access. By setting a new standard for inclusive agritourism, F+FEC strengthens Wisconsin’s reputation as an innovative, welcoming destination.

• Green Bay Packers 2025 NFL Draft Team – The Green Bay Packers 2025 NFL Draft Team has been nominated for the Service Excellence Award for their exceptional efforts in community engagement, including their sponsorship and promotion of Wisconsin's corn mazes as part of the lead-up to the 2025 NFL Draft. Their creative marketing initiatives have not only built excitement for the draft but also supported local agricultural tourism, small businesses, and tourism revenue across the state. Working in collaboration with Discover Green Bay and local agricultural partners; Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation, Gather Wisconsin, and Wisconsin Agricultural Tourism Association, the team played a key role in promoting NFL-themed corn mazes across Wisconsin, bringing together football fans and farm visitors for a unique fall experience. These mazes attracted thousands of visitors, driving economic impact to rural communities while reinforcing the Packers' deep connection to Wisconsin's heritage. In addition to the corn maze initiatives, the team's strategic efforts in securing the draft are projected to bring 250,000 attendees and generate $94 million in statewide economic impact, with $20 million directly benefiting Green Bay. Their work has positioned Green Bay as a top-tier event destination while keeping Wisconsin's agricultural traditions at the forefront of fan engagement. By blending football, tourism, and agritourism, the Packers Draft Team has elevated Wisconsin's visibility on a national scale, ensuring that both urban and rural communities benefit from this historic event. Their dedication to community driven tourism makes them a deserving recipient of the Governor's Service Excellence Award.

"These nominees exemplify the spirit of Wisconsin tourism – bringing fresh ideas, exceptional service, and unforgettable experiences to visitors," WATA Executive Director Sheila Everhart said. "Their contributions drive economic growth and solidify our state's reputation as a top-tier agricultural tourism destination."

Agricultural Tourism plays a vital role in Wisconsin's economy, blending the state's rich farming traditions with unique visitor experiences. "Agricultural tourism is more than just a weekend visit to the farm – it's a key economic driver that supports local businesses, educates visitors about our farming heritage, and strengthens rural communities," Everhart said.

Destinations and organizations like Skelly's Farm Market in Janesville, Busy Barn Farm Adventures, the Food + Farm Exploration Center and the Green Bay Packer's Draft team highlight the importance of agriculture in shaping Wisconsin's identity while providing hands-on experiences that resonate with visitors.

"With growing interest in authentic farm experiences, these nominees are leading the way in making Wisconsin a top destination for agricultural tourism," she said.

Winners of the 2025 Governor's Tourism Awards were announced at the Wisconsin Governors Conference on Tourism dinner on March 11.

The Wisconsin Agricultural Tourism Association promotes and preserves the rural lifestyle, fosters partnership opportunities within the ag-tourism community, and provides tools which encourage sustainable economic growth while creating awareness of Wisconsin agriculture.

dairy farmers and processors were impacted by the freeze of $28.6 million in awarded monies.

"The targeted, small-dollar investments in dairy businesses provided through DBI have helped to stabilize and strengthen our nation's food supply chain and rural economies," said Sweeney.

"We're grateful for the opportunity to continue this important work, and will push for increased DBI funding in the year ahead, alongside our allies in industry and in Congress."

WCMA, in partnership with the Center for Dairy Research at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, runs the Wisconsin-based DBI center, serving businesses in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin. Since this center's launch in 2019, it has awarded over $20 million in more than 250 grants to small and medium-sized dairy businesses.

High school graduation rates reach record high

New data published on March 6 shows high school graduation rates in the state are at an all-time high.

For the 2023-24 school year, 91.1 percent of Wisconsin high school students graduated on time, marking the highest rate since the four-year adjusted cohort was introduced in 2009-10.

"This achievement reflects the hard work and commitment of Wisconsin's students and teachers," State Superintendent Dr. Jill Underly said. "It's the result of countless hours, determination, and the strength of our community. This success shows what we can achieve when we work together. Moving forward, we must continue to build on this momentum and ensure every student is set up for success beyond graduation."

The data is part of the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction's annual certified data release, with the department's WISEDash Public Portal also being updated with certified enrollment figures for 2024-25, along with 2023-24 attendance rates and more.

"Although we should celebrate our successes, we should all continue to be concerned about — and work to reduce — the disparities in graduation rates between different groups of students," Dr. Underly said. "The reality is that students of color and other marginalized students are not doing as well, although those cohorts are also seeing some improvement. We need to double-down on making investments for those kids who need it the most. We should also be concerned that the federal government seems to want to end the collection of disparities data, which would hide these challenges rather than solve them."

In 2023, the DPI partnered with Graduation Alliance, using federal ESSER funding, to re-engage chronically absent and academically at-risk students. The ENGAGE Wisconsin program has seen continued success, and Gov. Tony Evers' 2025-27 budget proposal includes additional funding to sustain its efforts.

Data released on March 6 shows chronic absenteeism rates fell to 17.7 percent for the 2023-24 school year, while attendance rates climbed to 92.4 percent, marking the lowest and highest levels, respectively, since the 2020-21 school year.

Each year, all Wisconsin public school districts and independent charter schools collect information about their students, staff, and courses based on federal and state reporting requirements. These datasets are submitted to the DPI and are stored and linked in a data warehouse. The DPI's WISEDash Public Portal uses dashboards, or visual collections of graphs and tables, to provide multi-year educational data about Wisconsin schools and students. Data on the portal are redacted and available by school, district, or state. Data can be displayed for multiple years and can also be grouped and filtered by a variety of demographics, including grade level, gender, race/ethnicity, economic status, disability, English proficiency, and migrant status. For more information, visit the Wisconsin DPI's website.

Today, the Society has chapters on more than 300 campuses in the United States, its territories and the Philippines. Its mission is to "cultivate a community that celebrates and advances the love of learning."

Bring a dragon to this library?

Whatever you do, do not “Bring Your Dragon to the Library.” Unless you’re a preschooler at the Albertson Memorial Library Preschool Story Time every Tuesday at 10 a.m., that is. The series “In the Library” started off hot with stories about fire-breathing dragons and a boy who ordered a dragon that came “In the Mail.” Then they made a real (pretend) fire breathing dragon using tissue paper and pom poms. Finally, they tried dragon fruit. Most of the preschoolers decided they didn’t like it. Next they’ll try something a bit tastier. The Library Gingerbread Man will give children a tour of the non-fiction section of Albertson Memorial Library; he lives at 398.2. Wonder what would happen if the gingerbread man was a gingerbread girl? How would the end of the story change? This story time will probably involve some cookies and frosting, too.

Three people charged with rolling back vehicle odometers

The Wisconsin Department of Justice (DOJ) Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI) announced on March 4 that Marvin Reed Trotter, 53, Nycole Cavins, 55, and Marvel S. Trotter, 27, all of Brookfield, Wis., are facing numerous charges of Theft – False Representation Party to a Crime, for their roles in an operation of buying used vehicles, rolling back the odometers and/or altering titles and reselling them.

“Deceptive practices like those alleged in this case are unacceptable,” said Attorney

General Josh Kaul. “Thank you to those involved in the investigation and prosecution of this case.”

As alleged in the criminal complaint, investigators discovered 70 vehicles titled to the co-defendants that showed signs of having odometer discrepancies. In total, an estimated 4.5 million miles were allegedly removed from the vehicles’ odometers. The co-defendants own an autobody shop in Butler, Wis. The co-defendants would allegedly buy vehicles on Facebook Marketplace that needed work, roll back the odometers, change the miles on titles, and then resell the vehicles on Facebook marketplace at increased rates.

As in any criminal proceeding, the co-defendants are presumed innocent until proven guilty.

A preliminary hearing for Marvin Trotter and Nycole Cavins is scheduled for April 14 at 9:15 a.m.

This case was investigated by DCI. Prosecution is being handled by the Waukesha County District Attorney’s Office.

Edge Dairy Farmer Cooperative offers $10,000 in scholarships

Edge Dairy Farmer Cooperative will once again offer $10,000 in secondary education scholarships to its membership, the cooperative announced on March 5. Edge is proud to award the children of its members who exemplify the voice of milk through their education, career aspirations and future goals.

Two $2,000 scholarships will be awarded to current students pursuing a degree in a four – or two-year program, and three $2,000 scholarships will be awarded to high school seniors.

Applicants must be high school seniors, graduates, or college undergraduates. They must be enrolled or planning to enroll in a full-time course of study at an accredited four-year college or university or a two-year program at a technical, junior or community college. The area of study does not need to be agriculture-related, but applicants must be dependents of an Edge member.

“At Edge, we strive to provide maximum value to our members, and our scholarship program creates a meaningful way for us to give back to our members by investing in the future of the next generation,” Tim Trotter, Edge CEO, said. “We’re thrilled to be able to support and empower our youth who drive growth within our communities.”

Scholarship recipients will be selected based on academic achievement, leadership, participation in school and community activities, academic honors, goals and aspirations, recommendations and work experience. The full application and guidelines can be found on the Edge website at edgedairy.com. The application portal will remain open until April 18, and applications must be submitted by that date.

For more information about the Edge Dairy Farmer Cooperative scholarships, contact Kayla Mayer at kmayer@voiceofmilk.com.
